Goat's Milk Esbilac® vs. raw goat's milk

Raw goat's milk is not intended to provide optimal nutrition to other species. Goat's Milk Esbilac products closely mimic a mother's milk for puppies in need of supplemental feeding, or in cases of orphaned or rejected puppies.

Goat's Milk Esbilac®	Raw goat's milk
✓ Formulated specifically for puppies	✗ Not intended or required to follow puppy feeding guidelines
✓ Provides correct levels of lactose for easy digestion	✗ Contains 2x more lactose than dog milk, which can lead to digestive distress
✓ Contains optimal nutrients for growth and development	✗ May overwhelm puppies' systems by providing nutrients in excess, or cause them to feel full before nutrient requirements are met
✓ Pasteurized for proper bacterial control	✗ Unpasteurized with potential for bacterial contamination

Why is too much lactose bad for puppies?
